Course Description: Pediatric patients present serious challenges. From behavior management challenges, to struggling with rarely used pediatric techniques, general dentists often feel out of their comfort zone treating these situations. Pediatric dentists have developed many techniques that help treat tricky situations with minimal intervention. This course teaches these techniques, when to use them and how to do them. Some topics discussed are the uncooperative patient with mild to moderate decay, the sensitive hypoplastic molar, how to incorporate SDF into your practice, appropriate use of Glass ionomer, the modified Hall crown, and Strip crowns. All of these may keep kiddos in your practice longer. Then hands-on portion will help you get these techniques down and give you feedback on how to have success. This course is designed to have you walk away feeling confident in your ability to bring these techniques into practice and answer your pediatric questions.

Course Objectives:

- Recognize appropriate applications of SDF to arrest decay in their practice.
- Manage hypomineralized molars in their practice more successfully.
- Understand and use the Hall Crown Technique and the Modified Hall Technique.

Speaker Bio: Dr. Lenahan graduated summa cum laude from both Truman State University and the UMKC School of Dentistry. She earned her Masters of Dental Science during her pediatric dental residency at the University of Tennessee, Memphis. In 2021 Dr. Lenahan completed a fellowship in forensic dentistry at the University of Tennessee-Knoxville Graduate School of Medicine. She routinely lectures about pediatrics and forensics in the area. She practices full time at Lenahan Smiles Pediatric Dentistry, the practice her father started more than 40 years ago. She works part time doing full mouth dental rehab for children under general anesthesia at Compass Health Network.

Dr. Lenahan is a diplomat of the American Board of Pediatric Dentistry, and an active member of many professional organizations, including the American Academy of Pediatric Dentistry, American Association of Forensic Odontology, American Academy of Forensic Science, Missouri Emergency Response Identification team, ADA, MDA, Missouri Academy of Pediatric Dentistry, and GSLDS. Dr. Lenahan was honored to serve on the MDA executive board as the New Dentist representative and chaired both the Missouri and St. Louis's New Dentist Committees. She was recognized as the 2020 MDA Outstanding New Dental Leader, and one of the 2021 ADA's 10 under 10. She was inducted into the International College of Dentists in 2021. She is honored to serve as president of the Society this year.
